Long a - go in Al - ca - la, Ta ra dim.

ra, ta ra ra, ta ra ra ra! There dwelt a bold and bad Gran-dee,

Who used to sail up - on the sea, to sail up - on the sea, to sail up - on the sea, Ta ra ra, ta ra ra! He cresc.

lovd a — maid of Al - ca - la, Ta ra ra, ta ra ra, ta ra ra ra! For

he was fine, and frank, and free, And she was fair as a maid could be, as a maid could be! Tra la la, tra la la!

He was a ter-ri-ble, tall Al-ca-de, She was a love-ly—

la-dy, Al-ca, Al-ca, Al-ca-de-da! The love-ly la-dy of Al-ca-la, the la-dy of Al-ca-la! Ta ra ra, ta ra ra! They cresc. p

met one— eve in Al - ca - la, Ta ra ra, ta ra ra, ta ra ra ra! He said "Sweet maid - en, come with me," But she was as coy as a maid should be, as a maid, as a maid, as a maid should be! Tra la la, tra la lal _____ p So they

said a-way, both he and she, Ta ra ra, ta ra ra, ta ra ra ra! Which was

ra-ther odd, as it seems to me, For Al-ca-la is-nt on the sea, It's no-where near the sea! Tra la la la la la! f Still, cresc. f

that's the tale of the tall Al-ca-de, Who sail'd a-way with the love-ly la-dy, Al-ca, Al - ca, Al - ca - de - da! Tra la la, tra la la, tra la la la la! p Now, if you know what this songs a-bout, Ta ra ra, ta ra ra, ta ra ra ra! You know more than I do, there's no doubt! It's a song we could ver-y well— do with - out, we could ver-y well do with - out! Ta ra ra, ta ra ra! Yet to cresc. f p

tell the— truth, it seems to me, Ta ra ra, ta ra ra, ta ra ra ra! Some songs are ver-y like this, you see, For from sen-si-ble words they are of - ten free, They are bald, they are bald as a song can be! Tra la la, tra la la, tra la la la la la!

So when you sing such a song as this, Ta ra ra, ta ra ra, ta ra ra ra! All a - bout a man, and a maid, and a kiss, And a secret e-lope-ment and wed - ded bliss (They're all — ver - y much like this) — Tra la la la la cresc.

la! So long as the tune has a right good swing, It f does - nt much mat - ter what words you sing, Tra la la, Tra la la, tra la la la la! Tra la la, tra la la, tra la la, tra la!
